Guidelines for Contributors

Papers should be written in a jargon-free, non-technical style accessible to managers, workers and board members of third sector profit organisations, and to academic researchers, teachers and students from a variety of disciplines. Papers are subject to rigorous peer review, normally by two independent reviewers. A blind review process is adopted. For that reason, authors should indicate their names and affiliations on a separate page.

A paper from the field can draw on a study or research project but this is not essential. What is vital is that there are some practice-based lessons that are spelled out and would be useful to other practitioners. They should be able to refer in some way to research in some way as a starting point.

Papers should be 2,000-3500 words including an abstract of 100 words. Consider other papers from the field in prior issues. Write in a jargon-free, non-technical style accessible to managers, workers and board members of third sector organisations, and to academic researchers, teachers and students from a variety of disciplines. As with research papers, these will be sent out for peer review, normally by two independent reviewers. A blind review process is adopted. For that reason, authors should indicate their names and affiliations on a separate page.

Authors should also include a brief abstract (100 words) and up to five keywords. Papers should be between 4000 and 6000 words in length, in 12-point Times New Roman, double-spaced and with 2.5-cm margins. Please use minimal formatting and styles; indicate headings through the use of CAPITALS, bold and italics. Where quotations are more than 40 words, they should be indented, justified and set in italics, with the source following directly. Single quotation marks are to be used throughout the text, with double quotation marks within single when needed.

Authors should submit an electronic version of their paper in Microsoft Word format or Rich Text Format (RTF). If any images are used, please ensure that the full image file (jpeg or tiff) is supplied separately.

Editorial correspondence and manuscript submissions should be directed to tsr-editors@vuw.ac.nz.
